

JAMES RENWICK ALLIANCE FOR CRAFT

2021 MASTER OF THE MEDIUM David Harper Clemons

"My Studio work has always been an extension of the experiences I have internalized and I dissect my experiences and tease out greater awareness of the impact levied by each experience. My practice has become deeply introspective as probing my understanding of loneliness, friendships, creativity, southern culture, fatherhood, and finding a new sense of place and redefined identity have been my source material."

David was born in El Paso, Texas and spent much of his life in Austin, Texas. Initially he began his undergraduate career attending

Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana, pursuing a degree program for Biology Art. He attended the program for two years before returning to Austin to complete his BFA at the University of Texas in Austin, with a primary emphasis in painting. He earned his MFA in Metalsmithing in 2007 from San Diego State University. David taught in the art department at the University of Arkansas in Little Rock, Arkansas for 10 years. During 8 of those years he was responsible for creating and heading the Metalsmithing and Jewelry Department. In 2018 he relocated to Penland, North Carolina to dedicate his time to being an independent artist and workshop instructor. Much of his work embraces the craft of metalsmithing and its collected history of techniques and objects. The resulting works rendered in metal, mixed media, and handmade artist books are vehicles to communicate ideas surrounding identity, narrative, and forays into material and process-based work. He has exhibited in numerous exhibitions including: Craft in America: Expanding Traditions, Different Tempers: Jewelry & Blacksmithing, and RE/ACTIONS, and has work in the permanent collections of the Arkansas Art Center in Little Rock, National Ornamental Metal Museum in Memphis, Tennessee, the Yale University Art Gallery in New Haven, Connecticut, and Ollie Trout Collection at the University of Texas in Austin.
